Biography

Madeline Fredrick, better known as Midge, is a musician in heart and soul. Midge has performed for thousands of people all over the Orlando area, Pensacola and Cincinnati. In 2008 she appeared in the Sanford Herald Newspaper for a St. Patty's Day Serenade.

She has a great love for music, has played guitar most of her life, and loves singing and dancing. In her 40's is when her solo music life began.

Midge is a "One girl band" as she plays guitar, sings, and does what is best for the song by using a backtrack, drum machine, or sings A Capella with a tambourine. She also specializes in holiday events, especially Christmas. She performs all types of songs from the '40s to today, bringing youthfulness, vibrant, happy spirit to her music. Midge loves to get the audience involved. She honestly cares about people and wants to perform and make a difference in their day and life. Her goal is to bring sunshine and light to all.

Midge is also a songwriter, has written many original songs, and has an Album called "Life." Midge has begun writing Custom Songs, made to order for individuals, companies, or events.

Midge would be a great asset to any event, large or small. To book a performance call 407-603-6030 or contact

Kids House campaigns against child abuse

SANFORD — Kids House will host an effort called the Kick-Off to the Drive Away Child Abuse Campaign on Saturday, March 29, from 10 to 11 a.m.

According to a Kids House news release, in the last decade Seminole County's population has grown by 25 percent, with projections of it surpassing 500,000 by 2015. The county has become a magnet for high tech, high wage jobs and the home of Fortune 500 companies' regional and corporate offices.

Yet with the increase of people, comes the increase of community challenges, officials said.

Each year more than 4,000 reports of child abuse and neglect are reported to the Florida Abuse Hotline from Seminole County. However, it is estimated that more than 60 percent of child abuse is unreported.

Serving as Seminole County's single point of contact for child abuse cases, Kids House of Seminole, Children's Advocacy Center, is an important part of the Multi-Disciplinary Team who work to end child abuse. By providing a safe, caring, compas-

What is Key Note speaking..

A speaker who sets out the central theme of a conference. They are commonly experts of their respective fields, and can talk extensively on a specific topic or industry. The role of a keynote speaker is to feature as the headline speaker at an event. Able to invigorate an audience and deliver an engaging speech focusing on the topics established in a client brief, they are a proponent of the field where they have excelled and gained significant experience. A keynote speaker can masterfully demonstrate the skill set that has led to their reputation as a thought-leader in their area of expertise. They can present information in a unique way, allowing audiences to view a subject in a different light.

Ensuring corporate audiences are left inspired, entertained and educated on the subject matter is a prerequisite of any keynote speakers repertoire. Knowing their industry inside-out, they combine concise points with anecdotes relating to their personal journey to arrive at an end goal set out by the event organizer.

Keynote and conference speakers are quick to respond to an audience with credible answers to burning questions, engaging audiences with new information and reinforcement of best practices in order to benefit the work and life of any individual. Opening up doors for innovation, expert speakers can make for an insightful addition to any private, educational, organizational or business convention.
